Alejandro Gutierrez born in Pereira, Colombia, moved to the United States in the early 2000s. Having developed a great interest in government, Alejandro received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Georgetown University in Washington D.C. Upon his return to Miami, he attended Florida International University's College of Law and graduated with Honors. Alejandro was admitted to the Florida Bar in 2013 and subsequently admitted to the Southern District of Florida.

During his leisure time, Alejandro enjoys exercising, travelling, and sharing his time with friends and family.

Professional Background

Alejandro has primarily practiced in the areas of general liability, insurance, property damage, and employment law. Alejandro has extensively practiced in both the State and Federal Court systems.

Publications

Alejandro authored "The Pitfall of At-Will and Just Cause Employment" a comparative analysis of employment law between the United States and Colombia. The article has played various functions in real practice in Alejandro's cases throughout his legal career.

Alejandro joins Pena Garcia & Diz with ten years' experience in the Florida court systems at some of the largest firms in Florida.
